Lynchburg

Danville at Petersburg. Norfolk at Lynchburg.

Petersburg, Va., August 2.-Well, we still looking for that panacea which is going to cure whatever alls clime means Richmond, of course, and usually good natured city of Peters-burg. However, in view of the fact burg. However, in view of the fact that the "pesky critters" grabbed all three of the games of the series just closed—the last one by a 4 to 0 result—we are rather dubious of further fraternizing with them, at least in se far as baseball is concerned.

Returning to that panacea referred to above, we are not quite so sure whether we desire a panacea or an antidote for one named Andy Bruck miller. Some individual who falled to consult the oracle and placed his shekels so that they are now decorating the money bags of a Goober enthusiast was unkind enough to suggest prussic acid for the gentleman in question. But far be that from, or words to that effect, again indulging in the epigrammatic expressions of the dereitet Skillet, of Hennerracker

Ready for Bruckmiller, but—

O, fear not, fair one; we still have bases—Rickels.

Rendy for Bruckmiller, but—
O, fear not, fair one; we still have pennant aspirations. Yes, indeed. But like the debutante at her coming out party, we are just a trifle timid in making a beginning. We—the "we" always means Colts—thought we were about ready to put the double cross on Andy to-day. Everybody was there with bells dangling from every dangable portion of the anatomy. Bruck looked to the stalwart Colts about as big as the small end of a cambric needle. But, strange fo say, he loomed larger as the game grew shorter, until in perspective we now see him towering head and shoulders above the other pigmy flingers of this league.

In perspective we now see him towering head and shoulders above the other pigming flingers of this league.

With faces hidden and with shame causing blushes to mount our heroid countenances, we confess to having made one tremendous, juley bingle off Bruckmiller in nine innings, each admitting of three excellent tries. We meet hoosaiting of our prowess. Far to the contrary. It is merely a modest samission. However, even though we were successful in slamming a hurricane safety to centre garden, the count up falls to show a check mark in the column marked runs, which, dropping into the vernacular, means that Bruckmiller wielded the albastic palette.

Howe Makes Debut.

Ira Hogue, reliet of the departed Tidewater, and rumored protege of Jimmie McAleer, made his debut as a meriber of the Richmond staliwarts. Fred Lucia, helling from the same parts, came along. The two made up the bulwark of defense for Richmond. And gather not that their debut was a failure, for, paradoxical as it may seem in view of the result, they made the most favorable impression. Hogue is here to stick. He will keep his job until the majors carry him off. And Lucia is likewise a fixture. He is coolness personified. He has a head, and uses it for ## original purpose. (Many) in which thought is fathered.) His wing is great, and he pexs with an ease which is refreshing. Result: Not a Goober pilfered.

But the stars were not properly set A mix-up in the second inning allowed the lid to be put down tight, and all Petersburg sat on the top. Keither rode free. Hogue did his one poor piece of work when he hit Howdeell, who followed. Hannifan bounded a foater over second bag, and Dobson and Martin did the salaaming act while the leather rolled on to Wallace. The big fellow heaved to Baker, but the heave got away, and Kellher, Howedell, and Hannifan socred. Exit hope—for Jeros of work when he hit Howdeell, who followed. Hannifan bounded a foater over second bag, and Dobson and Martin did the salaaming act while the leather rolled on to Wallace. The big

Martin did the salaaming act while the leather rolled on to Wallace. The big fellow heaved to Baker, but the heave got away, and Keilher. Howedell and Hannifan scored. Exit hope—for Richmond. Baker's error didn't load the game though, for in the seventh three successive hits, one for an extra hassock, counted again, which was the one which brought nome the bacon.

Tweaty-mae Hen Up.

For the Coits exactly twenty-ning men faced Bruckmiller. Two of this number walked, and one-Martin-hit safety. Nothing else resembling a hit was scored, unless Wallace's life in the seventh on Booe's throw, which drew Keilher off the bag, could by a stretching of the conscience, be so construed. Only once did the Colts get a man as far as second. That came as a pleas ant surprise in the fifth, when Martin planked his hit to centre and then stole.

It was a great scientific exposition of the sport, but it was a hard hame to watch. Pender furnished the real amusement of the afternoon by almost calling some decisions as they should have been called. In fairness to him it is here stated that on several occasions he rendered perfectly correct decisions. On the whole, however, he missed. The misses happened on both sides; therefore he must be forgiven.

If Richmond.

HOUSTON TRIMS

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Houston, Va., August 2—Houston made it two straight from Spray today, the scores being 8 to 1 and 7 to 1. Henchman and Strain did the slab work for the locals. Johnson and Marshall were on the rubber for Spray. The morning game was the better of the two with several sensational fielding stunts to arouse interest. In the afternoon the locals started the rungetting in the first, never giving the outsiders a look-in until the sevent, and making eleven hits to Spray's five. Batteries: Houston—Strain and Hughes, Spray—Marshall and Smith
